The St. John's InfoNET is run on behalf of the St. John's InfoNET Association, Inc. (hereafter, the Association), overseen by a Board of Directors (hereafter, the Board). Each user account is assigned to an individual (hereafter, the User). As a user of the St. John's InfoNET systems, I understand and agree to the following:

1. Use of the St. John's InfoNET facilities is a privilege that can be taken away by the Board if abused. Examples of abusive use include: putting illegal material on the system; pretending to be someone other than my self or allowing someone else to use the account assigned to me; sending abusive, harassing, and/or fraudulent material or chain letters via e-mail; exploiting loopholes in the system to bypass user restrictions; using the system for commercial or monetary gain.
2. If I store information where other people can see it, the Board may review it and remove it, if it is thought by the Board to be illegal, obscene, or abusive.
3. The information on the St. John's InfoNET is intended for private and non-commercial use and I must not use it in any other way without first getting permission from the Association.
4. The information on the St. John's InfoNET is intended for general information and entertainment. The information is not intended to apply to me particularly or to any particular situation.
5. The St. John's InfoNET is run by volunteers and I cannot expect it to meet all of my needs. It may at times be inaccessible or unavailable and there may be problems in its operation or problems with the information on the system. I will not hold the Board or the Association responsible for any problems that I have as a result of using the system or from not being able to access the system.
6. The information on this application is accurate--pseudonyms or "handles" are not allowed.
7. I realize that information on the St. John's InfoNET is provided as a community service by various individuals and organizations and that it is no substitute for professional consultation. Advice on individual problems should be obtained personally from a qualified professional.
8. Accounts uncollected or dormant for one full year may be deleted.
